Mobilising capabilities and positive change in our planet's most dynamic fishery

Are you committed to the future sustainability of Pacific Fisheries? Are you ready to make a difference to your team, your organisation and your sector? Do you want to lead and become better at exercising leadership and influencing positive change? If so, apply to join one of the courses under the Pacific Fisheries Leadership Programme (PFLP)!

What is PFLP?

PFLP is a leadership development programme for current and emerging Pacific Fisheries leaders in government, regional agencies and national organisations. Up to 125 selected participants have the opportunity to develop their leadership capabilities and effectiveness through a variety of leadership courses tailored to the Pacific fisheries sector. The programme focuses on real-world and contemporary leadership issues and practice, and adapts to the unique context and needs of participants.

PFLP is implemented by a consortium led by the Pacific Community (SPC) with the Forum Fisheries Agency (FFA), The University of Queensland (UQ) and the Centre for Leadership and Adaptation (CLA). PFLP is a significant investment by the New Zealand Government and by members of the consortium.

What are the expected outcomes for the fisheries sector?

Expected long-term outcomes for the fisheries sector include improved quality and diversity of leadership and management in priority sectoral areas, and increased cooperation between relevant participants and their institutions.

What does PFLP include?

PFLP allows you to complete various programme courses and components including Leadership for Effectiveness; Leadership Experience; Leadership for Change; Leadership in Times of Uncertainty; customised short courses; and access to Coaching Support.

Join our next course - Leadership for Effectiveness

Commencing in the week beginning 21 September 2020, Leadership for Effectiveness will be delivered through a mix of online platforms that support self-directed and group-based learning. The course includes an introduction workshop followed by two sequenced modules - each delivered over two 8-weeks periods (each module requires approx. 4 hours per week plus 5 fortnightly half day virtual workshops and coaching), finishing in March 2021.

Module 1: Leading and Managing People

You will engage with and apply prominent theories and models about leading people in groups and teams to your own context; develop your behaviour as a leader of teams; and identify and evaluate strategies for developing high performance teams.

Module 2: Inclusive Strategic Leadership

You will engage with and apply theories and models to strategic thinking and planning; leadership and program management; strategic inclusive approaches to policy formation and implementation; and develop and articulate your Personal Leadership Vision.

Can I gain credit for Leadership for Effectiveness?

Yes! The two modules, Leading and Managing People and Inclusive Strategic Leadership, include activities that can be counted for assessment. To be eligible to receive one or two course credits towards selected University of Queensland (UQ) Business School post-graduate programs, all items of assessment for each area of coursework must be satisfactorily completed.
